

Green Certification

Green certification of the products in forests across the country is quickly becoming a part of the timber industry.

T.W.C. Consulting Forestry is qualified to do the initial management planning and implementation to get your property certified under one of the three major third party certification groups. The Sustainable Forestry Initiative, Forest Stewardship Council, and Ohio Tree Farm System are the main programs currently offering certification in the state. Certification under any of these programs means the wood products on your property are managed and measured under a high set of standards. Certification was not possible for small private landowners just a few years ago. We now have the resources to get you certified.

There are multiple reasons that you may wish to certify your lands. Please contact us if you are interested in learning more about green certification.
